A NOTE FROM MARKETING

Municipal and public safety environments demand a very different approach than a typical workplace. These are spaces built for constant use—police stations, courts, emergency operations centers, training rooms, public lobbies, and administrative offices—all requiring durability, ergonomics, security, and long-term performance every single day.

Designing for civic organizations carries a deeper responsibility. These environments must support the people who serve our communities while also reflecting the trust placed in them by the public. Performance matters. Longevity matters. And partnership matters.

As a local dealer with deep roots in Texas and California, we understand that these projects are more than installations—they are long-term investments in the communities we share. Our teams live and work alongside the clients we support. We understand regional standards, procurement pathways, and local codes. Just as importantly, we reinvest in the very cities and counties we partner with. That local presence and accountability matter to public organizations that value stewardship, responsiveness, and relationships built to last.

In this special edition of Puzzle, we're proud to showcase the municipal projects and product solutions that demonstrate what it means to design for service, resilience, and community trust. As we continue expanding our civic partnerships, we remain committed to investing where it matters most — close to home.

Tittle McFadden Public Safety Center

The City of Lewisville's Tittle McFadden Public Safety Center is a newly constructed 116,000 square-foot facility that now serves as the home for the Lewisville Police Department, Fire Station #1, and their respective administrations. The center represents a major step forward for the city's public safety infrastructure.

Project Goals

The client sought to modernize their decades-old facility with updated furniture solutions that emphasized clean lines, minimal storage, ergonomic flexibility, and long-lasting durability. With over 100 employees utilizing the space daily—and departments known for heavy wear-and-tear—it was essential to provide high-performance products that could endure rugged use while maintaining a professional and contemporary aesthetic. Height-adjustable stations were required across offices and workstations, and emphasis was placed on functionality and adaptability in emergency environments.

Solutions & Highlights

Spaces Furnished

- Reception, lounge spaces, open workstations, private offices, interview rooms, sleep quarters, conference rooms, training rooms, multipurpose areas, and outdoor furniture.

Our Approach

- Tangram collaborated with BRW Architects and consulting firms Peak Program Value and 720 Designs to deliver a comprehensive furniture package tailored to the demands of public safety professionals. The team focused on sourcing and installing heavy-duty, performance-driven solutions, including laminate finishes and robust seating options.

A centerpiece of the installation is the custom HOT EOC table, purpose-built for the Emergency Operations Center. This table is designed to accommodate multiple AV configurations, including computers and monitors, enabling real-time coordination during citywide emergency responses.

Results & Impact

The new Tittle McFadden Public Safety Center reflects the City of Lewisville's investment in the future of its public safety operations and community engagement. The furniture installations support critical functionality while aligning with the client's design vision of simplicity, efficiency, and resilience. Tangram's solutions have helped create a space that not only enhances daily workflows but also ensures the city is better prepared to serve and protect its residents for years to come.

“When we began designing our new Public Safety Complex-set to house both our Police and Fire Administration-we knew we were embarking on one of the most significant projects in the history of the City of Lewisville, and possibly all of North Texas. Lauren from Tangram took the lead-and she exceeded every expectation. She met individually with each Police and Fire group to ensure every department’s specific needs were understood and addressed. Despite a tight deadline, Lauren coordinated the ordering process efficiently to align with our building’s opening schedule.

The furniture installation was impressively seamless. Raul, the on-site foreman, provided detailed daily progress reports and ensured everything stayed on track. Lauren remained onsite as well, always ready to assist and ensure nothing was overlooked. Her level of communication was especially remarkable-any time we had a question, she had the answer. Her attentiveness even extended to small, thoughtful gestures, like making sure our Police Chief had a cold Diet Coke waiting when he moved into his office.

Thanks to Tangram and Lauren, our transition into the new facility was smooth and stress-free. The public has given us numerous compliments on the furniture and the overall aesthetic of the complex. We consider Tangram and Lauren vital partners in this process, and the City of Lewisville looks forward to continuing our collaboration with them in the future.”
